Bills Offered by Gibson.

Already bills have been introduced by Gibson to carry out the recommendations of the efficiency bureau as regards the office of the recorder of deeds. This proposed legislation is designed to bring the office's filing system up to date and make it unnecessary for a person seeking to ascertain whether there is a lien on certain property to engage a title company.

One matter in which the bureau is expected to report in the study of the offices of tax collector and tax assessor is whether the present system by which the collector does nothing more than receive the paid-in taxes is the more modern. Under this system, it is point-ed out, the collector really is nothing but a receiver of taxes.

All files pertaining to assessments and bills are kept in the office of the assessor.

This office does all of the preliminary ork, even to the mailing out of the of the bills and receives the money when the taxpayer comes in.

Cites Need for Compendium.

Dr. Seligman declared that scholars in the various branches of social science have found an imperative need for an authoritative summary of the results achieved in related fields. This, he said, would be supplied in the proposed encyclopedia.

"Not only have the various social problems become of engrossing importance to the modern world," he said, "but there has developed a recognition of the close interrelation of all the social sciences and the need of so restating the conclusions of modern investigation in the light of these interrelations."

Prof Dana C. Monro, of Princeton university, told the association tonight. Prof. Monro delivered the annual address of the president before the association's forty-first annual meeting, taking as his subject "War and Historians". "Some influences of the great war are readily apparent," he said. "Along certain lines it has given a new impetus to force already at work, in actually enlarging the domains of history." "I think we can predict that there will be a still greater broadening of the scope of history and a greater interest in it on the part of the public. The most interesting query is, will the next generation see a succession of great historian and if such there be is it possible to predict how they will view history and undertake their task?"

May Reestablish Leadership.

But President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg now are to have the opportunity to restate America's position and Indications are American leadership may be reestablished as soon as the gist of this statement is understood. It is hinted that America not only will agree to the British professions of friendship and readiness to assist China, but will go a few steps further and make it clear that the United States government stands for something more than mere professions of friendship and wants words supported by definite action.

The British memorandum, it is noted, appears to be an unselfish renunciation of the old policy which Britain and other powers have been following in Chinese affairs for nearly a century, but closer scrutiny, it is pointed out, shows the British foreign office has attached certain strings or conditions to its proffers of assistance and renunciation. The described benefits are to go to China when she has a "responsible government," or who is to pass on this government," or who is to pass on this But President Coolidge and Secretary

Wei Hai Wai Not Returned.

This was halled as a spendid example of renunciation on the part of the British and in keeping with the spirit of the Washington treaties, as it was everywhere conceded that China was entitled to have this territory. But when negotiations got under way between the British and the Chinese, one of the conditions made by the British was that certain parts of Wei Hai Wai should be retained by Britain for a period of ten years with a further condition that these ten-year periods of British possession should continue indefinitely until "both parties to the agreement" were ready to nullify the agreement where the service of British consequently have never returned Wei Hai Wai.

On the question of tariff autonomy for China, President Coolidge is expected to declare in favor of China's right to levy its own taxes like any other sovereign nation.

On the question of the abolition of extraterritorial rights in China, the United States government is expected to favor negotiations with China. Negotiations on this and other subjects may be undertaken by the United to favor negotiations with China. Ne-gotiations on this and other subjects may be undertaken by the United States in collaboration with other powers, or America may announce read-iness to deal directly with China.

Chinese Approval Seen.

An American policy which would take a fresh start and not be hampered by past abortive attempts to solve thinese problems would meet, it is understood, with the approval of the Chinese. The conferences at Peking, which came as an aftermath to the Washington conference, have proved failures so far as any practical results are concerned, it is now freely admitted.

These loopholes or jokers in the British memorandum attract particular attention in China, it is said, because of recent experiences with British diplomacy. At the Washington conference, Lord Balfour, on behalf of the British government, solemnly pledged that Wei Hai Wai, seacoast fortifications in the northern part of Shantung, would be returned to China "under suitable conditions."

Premier Will Visit Capital and Be Luncheor Suest at White House.

(New York, Dec. 28 (By A. P.).-There are no clouds on the horizon near Australia and "we are on excellent rms with Japan," said Prime Minisarrival here today.

The prime minister, who is returning to the antipodes from the imperial conference at London, made the statement in his hotel rooms after a ride up the harbor on a cutter from the fog bound Majestic at quarantine.

It is the prime minister's seventh or eighth visit to the United States. He is accompanied by Mrs. Bruce. He said he was here this time "primarily to renew acquaintance with a great country which has so much in common with my own."

Thursday Premier Bruce will go to Washington, where the admirals of the American fleet which visited Australia in 1925 will be his hosts at a luncheon. The next day he will confer with President Coolidge, and, it is understood, take luncheon in the White House and then go to Montreal.

Although his prepared statement discussed at length the need for peace, Mr. Bruce said he did not wish to comment extensively on disarmament when interviewed by reporters. The question of whether he favored any more disarmament conferences brought the response that disarmament conferences brought the response that disarmament conferences brought the response that disarmament conferences were "always coming up," and that he believed nothing more could be done than is being done.

His attention called to Washington reports of increased naval building programs among the nations involved in the 1920 naval armed-ship limiting conference, Mr. Bruce said:

He declared that the "dangerous state of foment in Europe" is a menace to the peace of the world and to dvillation. While Australia appreciates America's traditional policy of keeping free from all European entanglements and maintains a similar attitude herself, he said, "neither of us can ignore the facts; the first thing is to recognize its existence; the second is to endeavor for rectify matters." He was convinced, he said, that only with America's help would Europe get back.

Mr. Bruce described the imperial conference in London as a "declaratory phenomenon" and declared the British empire emerged from the conference "stronger than ever before in its history."

Referring to the relationship of the various parts of the empire, he said. "whatever we do together in the future, as joint partners, we do in a spirit of cooperation. There is no, and can be, no coercion."

He said Australia would very likely not send an ambassador to this country, since it is now, getting its diplomatic service done for nothing.

THE NICARAGUAN SITUATION.

The extension of the neutral zone along the east coast of Nicaragua puts an end to fighting in that, region, and also puts a stop to the importation of arms and supplies from Mexican sources in aid of the communist uprising against the government of Nicaragua. While the United States forces are not fighting either side in the revolution, the establishment of the neutral zones insures safety to the Americans and other foreigners who are living in Nica-

The Sacasa revolutionists, with the help of 300 Mexicans and with American rifles and machine guns, recently defeated the Nicaraguan government forces. This was at Pearl Lagoon, on the east coast. Now that the east coast is withdrawn from the fighting area the revolutionists have no means of obtaining supplies, and the early collapse of their campaign is a foregone conclusion unless the American forces are withdrawn.

Whether or not the United States is permitting the Diaz government to obtain war supplies here is not made known, but if precedent is followed such permission will be given, while an embargo will be placed upon arms destined for the revolutionists. This was the course followed by President Coolidge in January, 1924, when he prohibited the shipment of arms to Mexico except such shipments as were desired by the recognized government of that country. This embargo is still in effect. The object of the embargo was to aid the Obregon-Calles government, which had been recognized by the United States.

The same policy ought to be pursued in Nicaragua; but if it should be found that the Nicaraguan government were playing traitor to the agreement, as the Calles government has done by sending these American arms into another country for the purpose of destroying its government, then the Diaz government should not be permitted to obtain war material in this country. This is the course that has been followed by Secretary Kellogg in denying permission to the Calles government to import military airplanes, which no doubt would have found their way to the Sacasa forces in Nica-

The United States befriended the Obregon-Calles government of Mexico and enabled it to put down a revolution. The Calles government has responded by enacting laws intended to confiscate all American and foreign property in Mexico and by fomenting, financing and arming a communist revolution in Nicaragua.

Secretary Kellogg seems to be reluctant to give full support to the government he has Tibet, Central Asia, India, Australia, Europe Hence, possibly in Nicaragua. there will be further bloodshed. If the Mexican-aided communists should gain the upper hand the United States would find itself a step nearer the day when it would be compelled to clean Central America in order to protect the Panama canal.

The Mexican aggression against the Nica raguan government is essentially aggression against the United States. The easiest and most certain method of stopping that aggression is to neutralize the east coast of Nicaragua, which Admiral Latimer has done, and to give support to the Nicaraguan government, which apparently Secretary Kellogg does not have the courage or statesmanship to do.

THE RIGHT TO BE A JUROR.

Some few weeks ago the announcer of a radio station located in New York delivered a vitriolic attack over the air against certain religions and races. Not long thereafter he was subpensed for jury duty, and the judge before whom he appeared, who had been informed of the attack, refused to accept his services. Subsequently the judge informed the commissioner of juries of the facts in the case, and the latter, after an investigation, and after listening to a Christmas talk by the nouncer along the same lines, announced that he would strike the individual permanenty from the role of those eligible for jury luty, thus disbarring him forever from such service. The announcer now has stated his intention of taking the entire episode before he courts in an attempt to reverse the deon of the commissioner.

The merits of the case are apparent. Perins of unreasonable prejudices should not permitted to sit in judgment upon their ws. The court in its examination of urors preliminary to each case invariably atapts to establish the openmindedness of ch individual under consideration. If the commissioner has established to his satction that the person he has barred from y would have been excused from each case in which he might be called, he has acted save the time and trouble of both the infor the picture of an individual fighting to be permitted to sit as a juror will have a wholesome effect on the general public.

More important, however, is the fact that individual is about to go into the courts

THE FEDERAL RESERVE.

Secretary Mellon defends the Federal Reserve system and urges the enactment of a bill by Congress renewing the charters of the Federal Reserve banks. This system has been in operation for twelve years. The original charters were for twenty years, hence the charters of the banks in the system have about eight years more to run. To neglect the renewal of these charters, in the opinion of the Secretary, will jeopardize the whole system and seriously affect the finances of the government at a time when there should be no uncertainty or disturbance.

The Federal Reserve system took the place of the old national bank system. The national banks filled the needs of the post-civil-war period and offered a market for government bonds. But as the business of the country increased and expanded, and the element of credit became of such moment in business, Congress began to lay plans for a more elastic currency system. A monetary commission sought information from all leading countries, and made a report to Congress. This report was the basis of a currency system suggested and planned by the late Senator Aldrich and his assistants. Out of the Aldrich plan grew the present Federal Reserve system.

There were many objections to the present Federal Reserve system when it was before Congress, principally because it might lend itself to currency inflation. During the world war the Federal Reserve system did inflate the paper or credit money of the country enormously; but perhaps this saved the nation from more serious difficulties. The old national bank system could not have stood the strain of the world war.

The present system has proved itself equal to any emergency, however severe, and is without doubt the best system that could be devised based on commercial paper and credit. The United States has gathered to itself the great bulk of the gold of the world, has materially assisted some European countries to get back to a gold basis, and has reached a commanding place among all nations. The Federal Reserve system contributed to this. but the broad policy of national protection in all forms promoting prosperity was the most important factor.

The truism "All things come to him who waits" is again brought forcibly to mind through the receipt by the Smithsonian institution recently of a gift presented to the institution just 22 years ago.

When he reached the age of 75, which was 22 years ago. Capt. John Donnell Smith, of Baltimore, announced that he had given to the Smithsonian the botanical library which he had spent 30 years in collecting. But there was the reservation that he desired to retain the books as long as he wished to do so. Now he has decided, at the age of 97, that the volumes will be more useful in the building in the Mall than in his own home.

There are some 1,600 books in the collection, and they are believed to be the most complete and carefully selected volumes on botany ever gathered together. This is especially true of the books referring to the flora of Central America as well as tropical America generally. Aside from the contents, the library is unique in its bindings, and will attract attention as examples of the binders'

In addition to the library itself the institution has received from the same donor his collection of more than 100,000 specimens of plants. The collection contains many types which have served for the description of new species. These specimens, while largely of South and Central American origin, embrace also many examples of plant life from China, and Africa. A portion of this herbarium installed in the Smithsonian some years ago and has been found of great value to the institution's botanists.

Capt. Smith is the oldest living alumnus of Yale, having been graduated from that university in 1847. He first took up the subject of botany in 1874, and during his extended career in the search for knowledge of plants has been associated with some of the most erainent botanists in the world.

DOUBLE TAXATION.

The President has decided to send an official representative to Geneva to attend the coming international conference on the question of double taxation.

"Double taxation" in the international sense is the taxation of incomes derived from individuals and corporations having business in two or more countries. The problem is to decide what portion of the net earnings of the business shall be allocated to each country for taxing purposes. Should an individual doing business in Great Britain and France, as well as the United States, be taxed on his income derived only from business in each country? Or should there be a standard international arrangement or agreement? While the revenue act of 1926 provides for the taxation of incomes derived from foreign business, there is an absence of uniformity among the nations, resulting in many in stances in what is called "double taxation." In recent years American capital has been invested in foreign corporations, and foreign capital has been invested in American con porations. The result is that the question of ncome taxes is somewhat puzzling and complicated.

AVOIDING AIRPLANE FIRES.

Five years ago Paul Painleve, at that time inister of war of France, realized that many of the lives lost in aviation accidents were not directly because of the crash itself but be ause of the explosion and fire which followed. This suggested the desirability of using noninflammable gasoline or other fuel, and resulted in the appointment of a scientist, Raoul Ferrier, to consider and experiment with the matter. The entire resources of the to fight for his right to serve as a juror, for army's technical aviation services were placed

The product, however, did not possess the necessary volatility for distribution through the carburetor by vaporization, and hence was useless for the purpose intended. Now it appears that the problem of vaporization has been solved.

> Those who witnessed moving pictures of the start of the ill-fated transatlantic flight attempted by Rene Fonck last autumn will realize what the new fuel will mean to aviation. The giant Sikorsky plane started down the runway, struck a depression and overturned. For several moments nothing further happened, until suddenly a blast shook the wreckage and immediately the entire ship was wrapped in flames. Had the tanks in the plane been filled with noninflammable matter, it is probable there would have been no loss of life, for the two pilots sitting in the most dangerous position in the plane, were able to leap to safety. The mechanics, however, in a sheltered cabin, were unable to effect their escape and burned to death. Hundreds of > other similar catastrophes have occurred. Noninflammable helium gas, now standard for American lighter than air ships in place of the highly inflammable hydrogen, undoubtedly will do much to facilitate commercial use of this type craft. A motor fuel which will not ignite, of vital concern to the security of pHot and passenger alike, should be a similar influence on the commercial development of

NIAGARA FALLS DOOMED.

All the debutantes of the present social season should take warning if they contemplate a visit to Niagara Falls as part of their honeymoon journeys. If they desire to see that great cataract they will do well to curtail their spinsterhood and get their going-away gowns ready without delay.

Frank B. Taylor, of Fort Wayne, Ind., a geologist not heretofore known to fame, has been engaged on geological calculations with a view to ascertaining exactly how many more years Niagara Falls can survive. He has not yet determined the exact day when they will disappear, but he is quite ready to risk his geological reputation that in about 3,200 years unless some impertinent human interferes 'the upper four lakes will discharge at Chicago and Niagara Falls will go dry."

Mr. Taylor bases his prediction upon the sup posed fact that during the last 2,700 or 3,000 years land in Lake Huron has been rising at the rate of 1.48 feet every century. It appears from the evidence deduced by this scientist that there is a hinge just west of Buffalo which is the pinnacle of the rise. Everything under the surface of the water west of that hinge is tilting westward, so that in just about 1,600 years the level of Lake Erie will be on an exact plane with the level of Lake Huron. The remaining years up to A. D. 5100 will be required for the upper lakes to adjust themselves to running through the Chicago drainage canal and the Illinois river into the Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico instead of through the Niagara and St. Lawrence rivers into the Gulf

Mr. Taylor holds out great hopes for the water diversionists of Chicago and the rest of Illinois. It would be thought that such a dry prospect as he holds out for the people of Buffalo would cause great consternation among those western New Yorkers. But it should not be forgotten that the province of Ontario is within 1,800 feet of the very heart of Buffalo, that the new bridge connecting the two will be dedicated next May and that-best of all-Ontario will be fully as wet as Niagara Falls ever was by the time that bridge is dedicated. That will be 3,172 years before the day of doom for Niagara Falls, according to Geologist Taylor, the latest romantic writer to come out of Indiana.

THE BATTLE OF TRENTON.

The greatest and most important battle of the American Revolution was fought near Trenton. N. J., 150 years ago Monday, December 27. Trenton was in the possession of the Anglo-Hessians, and Philadelphia was threatened.

The people of Trenton were divided. Some were favorable to the war; some were noncombatants; still others were supporters of the English crown. Many of Washington's own soldiers were half clad, half fed and dissatisfied. Congress was unresponsive and irresolute. The American cause was hanging in the balance.

The Whigs in Philadelphia were panicstricken. Congress fled to Baltimore. Tory sympathizers were on all sides, and the enemy were ready to make a last assault on the Amer-

Taking advantage of the practice of the Hessians to feast and carouse on Christmas eve Washington made a crossing of the Delaware river amid snow and floating ice, surprised the Hessians, and put them to rout, without the loss of a single American officer or enlisted man. This feat is one of the most brilliant military achievements on record.

In his "History of the Revolution," the late Senator Lodge says of the battle of Trenton:

Congress, thoroughly frightened, adjourned to Baltimore. Before going, however, they passed a resolution giving Washington "full power to order and direct all things relating to the department and the operation of the war." Thus they put all that was left of the Recolution into put all that was left of the Revolution into his hands and made him dictator. Gun Salute for Prince On Arriving in New York

New York, Dec. 28 (By A. P.).—Prince Chichibu, of Japan, brother of the mikado, called from his studies in Oxford because of the fatal illness of his father, and Stanley M. Bruce, prime minister of Australia, arrived here today circumstances which never before marked the arrival of two such distinguished men.

The booming of a 21-gun salute fired at Governor's island was the only formal gesture marking their arrival. Under the direction of J. Wilbur Wright, Assistant Secretary of State, they were New York, Dec. 28 (By A. P.).-Prince mal gesture marking their arrival. Under the direction of J. Wilbur Wright, Assistant Secretary of State, they were taken off the Majestic at quarantine by the coast guard cutter Raritan, a heavy fog having kept the liner from continuing to her pier.

Proceeding up the bay, the Raritan was forced, because of the heavy pall of fog. to keep within 100 to 200 feet of the pier heads. The trip up the bay was accompanied with many hazards, the cutter dodging in and out of the heavy river traffic and passing larger craft which did not recognize the Raritan's importance or give her due consideration as the bearer of royalty or of a foreign government dignitary.

At pier 59, where the Raritan docked, the prince was met by a group of notable Japanese from Washington and New York and Prime Minister Bruce by a delegation of Australians and Englishmen. Under a police motorcycle escort, the prince was driven to the Plaza hotel and Mr. Bruce to the Hotel Biltmore.

Prince Chichibu had prepared a statement, written on fine linen bordered with a black margin and bearing the imperial seal of Japan. It read:

"I am hurrying home this time under a most painful circumstance, and I have no occasion therefore to have the pleasure of meeting the people of this country, the country which has had a

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

When determining whether to assist your partner's suit-bid or to name your own declaration, be neither grasping nor timid; bid conventionally.

This pointer is an important one for many players. Some are so anxious to play the Dummy that they forget their partnership obligations; with normal support and sound assistance for partner's Major suit, so that game is more probable with that than anything eige. they will bid their own hands instead of assisting. Others (a distinct minority, I admit) are so timid that they fear the strain of playing the Dummy and so raise their partner's suit with out normal support.

It is quite true that when one player is very much stronger than his partner is very much stronger than discount of the bidding so that the stronger player obtains the contract; but only on exceptional occasions is this situation admitted, and the advice we are giving is intended to apply generally. There are many cases in which, over a partner's No Trump, it is advisable to bid a Major suit so as to give the No Trump as the overcall assures No Trump, But when a Major suit has partner, he can return to the No Trump ben made originally by the partner, to shift to some originally by the partner, to shift to some three or four days, were to be expected each winter.

Then came the telephone, and spasmodic croup lost some of its terror. What mattered it if the mother did know that the doctor when called by phone at midnight would prescribe ipecac? The telephone did for the mother what ipecac did for her baby. It made it possible for her to relax.

In recent years we have learned that the basic cause of spasmodic croup is an insufficiency of calcium in the blood; also that this disorder is a first cousin to convulsions and a group of spasmodic disorders. This discovery Few diseases are so harrowing to mothers as old-fashioned croup. The child has a cold with fever. The cough is troublesome. Things are going none too well, but there seems no reason to apprehend trouble when on a certain night, the mother goes to sleep. A while before midnight she is awakened by her baby's coughing. The sound is peculiar. No other cough has had other attacks. She has taken sounds just the same. By the time the mother is awakened, gets out of bed, slips on her wrapper and slippers and reaches the child's bedside it is breathing with difficulty.

In the olden days the mother reached for the ipecac bottle and doped the youngster. Presently he vomited. The mausea made the baby so miserable that he did not care whether he got any air or not. When this "don't care" stage was reached he relaxed and, therefore, breathed more easily so long as the relaxation lasted. All night long as the relaxation has don't all probability she has been told that bables who have a croupy tend-that bables who have a croupy tend-that he did not care whether he got any air or not. sleeping, but will make us chronically bad tempered.

I have great sympathy for any one who suffers from insomnia, but so few people realize that, in most cases, it can be easily cured. Many persons who believe themselves to be suffering from some incurable physical malady will be surprised to find that, by adhering to certain simple standards of living, they can be restored to normal condition in a short while. Proper exercise, proper recreation, right eating, right drinking, right thinking, moderation in all things—in these we find the surest means of vanquishing sleeplessness and restoring our good nature.

Dear Viola Paris—How should I treat

Dear Viola Paris—How should I treat calloused places on the soles of the feet? Answer—I would suggest that you first soak the feet in hot water until the skin is thoroughly softened. Then scrape the calloused part gently away, using a razor blade and doing the work gradually. Do not go so deep that red, tender skin is exposed. Finish by rubbing in a little cold cream.

NEW YEAR'S EVE CUSTOMS.

S OME letters have come in about New Year observances, and people giving parties have asked what to do to make the evening pass. "In large towns we go to theaters, to moving pictures, or we give dances. But in the smaller places or for country-house parties, what shall we do?" That is what they saw.

smaller places or for country-house parties, what shall we do?" That is what they say.

I suggest a late dinner or supper, and games as well as dances to the accompaniment of phonograph or radio. The most childish for young people in high spirits. I suggest that old one where something is hidden and searched for by couples, say, wille the rest of the company guide them with the time-honored "hot" and "cold" clues. If the objects searched for were in the nature of jokes, of absurd type with some individual significance, or letters like valentines with absurd messages, the couple finding them would be both amused and the cause of amusement. Of course, the party must be a small one among intimate friends if the jokes are to be personal. Then at midnight, when the whistles blow and the lighting off and on, a large paper bag full of bonbons and mottoes (which might be hung from a center light) could be broken and rain down its contents upon the carpet. Small presents for each guest might be in it: not expensive; just little favors, sachets, artificial flowers, tinsel stars, something to make talk. Then a buffet supper might be flowers, tinsel stars, something to make talk. Then a buffet supper might be

The Value of Accessories

In such wholly delightful and livable rooms as this is best illustrated the decorative value of accessories. Try to picture the corner sketched here without the ship model over the desk, the pot of ivy in the window, the prints above the table, the candle, the lamp, the bowl of flowers, the hanging lantern. The long list in writing gives an impression of overornamentation. Yet with but one of these things removed a startlingly noticeable gap is created in the room's decoration.

As a matter of fact there is a marked simplicity about the scheme, despite a more than ordinarily generous use of more than ordinarily generous use of accessories. Nothing has been overdone.

Unvirtuous Patience.

From my own children.

I was reared in a Christian home where marriage was regarded as a holy institution and where duty was more than a word. But these days, neither marriage nor duty mean anything. I married at 18 and have never known a single year of happiness. My husband just regards his wife as part of the house, and a person to see to his comfort. I can be tired to death, but there is no rest or let-up. From the day I married, I have never had a thought except for my home and this man. But never has he had one thought for me. One year after my marriage I had to start taking boarders or I would have never had a dress to wear. He ordered the food and paid for it. I never knew the touch of money. After I took in two to board, I kept out a little for myself. But in another year he put a stop to that. I had to give him all their board—and just had the extra work for my reward. As the children came along I had to take in extra people for meals and as he did not know how many came to mid-day meal. I could get a few dollars.

This has gone on for twenty years. My oldest girl is 19. All the sympathy 11 could get a few dollars.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Dec. 28 (By A, P.).—A reactionary tone developed in the cotton market today. The advance of approximately a cent a pound from recent low levels seemed to have easeet tilight adverse as the contract of the contracts cased off from 12.90 to 12.72 and and closed at 12.78, the general market closing steady, at a ret decline of 2 to 5 on The opening was steady at an adern selling and realizing. March contracts eased off from 12.90 to 12.72 and closed at 12.78, the general market closing steady, at a ret decline of 2 to 5 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 5 to 8 points on continuation of the recent buying movement inspired by the steadiness of near months, continued unfavorable weather for saving late cotton in the South and the apparent absence of any selling pressure of consequence in the Southern spot markets.

January sold up to 12.72 and May to 13.98, but at these figures, demand seemed to taper off as if the short interest had been considerably reduced. The market soon turned easier under realizing.

There was no change in the general character of the news, but the bullish features recently emphasized, evidently failed to bring in much additional buying. This left the market more sensitive to profit taking or small selling orders from the South. A few additional notices were without apparent effect, but January eased off to 12.54, or 10 points net lower, while May declined to 12.90, a net loss of about 12 points. The close was a few points up from the lowest on covering.

Clearing but coid weather was predicted for the Southwest, while further rains were expected in the Eastern belt tonight and conditions for picking cotton showed little improvement. This probably brought in some buying on the declines, or on scale down orders, but there was very little support on the bulges.

It was reported that no less than 20 firms or houses had stopped notices.

but there was very little support on the bulges.

It was reported that no less than 20 firms or houses had stopped notices issued against January contracts yesterday, and this attracted considerable comment, indicating a widespread interest in the local stock at prevailing prices and differences.

Head in Texas Named BY NEW YORK CENTRAL New York, Dec. 28 (By A. P.) .-- A. D

McDonald, vice chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific Co., now stationed in New York, today was elected president of the Southern Pacific lines in Texas and Louisiana to on Proposed Lease of West Virginia Line.

New York, Dec. 28 (By the Associated Press).—The New York Central railroad reports net operating income of $5,965. 393, for November against $5,525,981 in November last year and for the eleven months this year $66,868,268 compared with $63,713,839 in the same period of 1925. November gross revenues were about $825,000 larger than a year ago. Stockholders of the New York Central railroad will be asked at their annual meeting January 28 to authorize the joint lease with the Chesapeake & Chio, of Nicholas, Fayette & Greenbrier railroad to be built between Swiss and Nallen, W. Vas.

Instead of making the stock dividend distribution that had been expected, allied Chemical directors raised the annual rate from $4 to $8.

Stockholders of V. Vivaudou, Inc., approved an increase in the authorized preferred stock from $2,500,000 to $8,000,000 to $0,000,000 to $0,000,0 New York, Dec. 28 (By the Associated Press).—The New York Central railroad 971/2

Chicago, Dec. 28 (By the Associated Press.)—Heavy selling out on the part of holders of December contracts tumbled values down in all the grain pits today. The severest jolt was to wheat, the July delivery of which dropped to a new low price record for the season. Decided enlargement of the amount of wheat afloat for Europe was an outstanding bearish factor.

Wheat closed unsteady, 2¾ to 4¼ net lower with corn 1¾ to 2¾ down, oast 1¼ to 1¼ net 3¼ of 3¼ down, oast 1¼ to 1¼ net finished at virtually the day's lowest level. Not only was the supply of wheat on ocean passage shown to be much larger than was generally supposed but the North American visible supply was also revealed as having increased for the week. Besides, wheat deliveries in Chicago today on December contracts persisted to be of liberal volume, and the fact gradually became evident that liquidation by owners of December wheat was in progress on a large scale.

MANY LEADING STOCKS SUFFER SHARP LOSSES

CALL FUNDS 51/2 PER CENT

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Dec. 28.—Encouraged by the post-holiday indifference of the public toward the market and yesterday's setback, traders for the decline soil stocks vigorously today, causing a quite general slump in prices ranging from fractions to 8 points. Disappointed melon-seekers were credited with some of the heaviest selling of the day. Much other selling was done to establish income tax losses. The market was active at all times, the turnover exceeding 2,200,000 shares. Nearly all the foreign currences were firmer, call money ruled at 5½ per cent. The rate of 190 day bankers' acceptances was lowered by ½ of one per cent.

Allied Chemical was one of the most active stocks of the day, losing 6½ points in a turnover of 107,600 shares. Indoubtedly the weakness in this 1st sue was caused by the failure of the board of directors today to declare an extra stock dividend of proportions close to that recently given by the U. S. Steel Corporation. Instead the dividend rate was raised from $4 to $6. In other quarters the declaration of only the regular American Can dividend was a severe disappointment. The stocks harders his today included many of the high-grade industrial and rall leaders which have been in the van during the recent advance. General Motors, U. S. Steel Corporation. Instead the dividend rate was raised from $4 to $6. In other quarters the declaration of only the regular American Can dividend was a severe disappointment. The stocks hardest hit today included many of the high-grade industrial and rall leaders which have been in the van during the recent advance. General Motors, U. S. Steel Corporation. 20 shares droped to 1,825 at net loss of 155 points since the last previous sale.

A block of 100 shares of Laclede Gas preferred changed hands at 100½, which was 16½ points alower than the last previous sale. A block of 100 shares of Rational Surety was bought at 237, which was 14½ points above the last guotation. Only seventy stocks on the list came through the day with net gains and these for the most part were fractional.

Those who believe the report that Atchison is to be placed on a $10 dividend basis at the January meeting are trying hard to figure out the price at which the stock should sell.

Two other strong roads, Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific, are already on a 10 per cent dividend basis and are both selling below the current price for Atchison. However, neither road is so well regarded in Wall street, either for operating efficiency or for financial strength, as is Atchison.

Nearly all the foreign currencies were simmer. Sterling went to $4.85½ for cables, the highest point since early in the year, and Indian rupees jumped to 36½ cents, a new high for the year.

The appreciation in the former was due largely to the seasonal flow of funds, while rupees rose on a burst of $4.9.86.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, Dec. 28 (By the Associated Press.)—Reactionary price tendencies became more pronounced in today's curb market, which witnessed heavy ilquidation for both accounts in sympathy with the break on the big board. While a few issues sagged to new low levels for the year, there were no signs of acute weakness in any group. Some of the selling undoubtedly was inspired by a desire to register losses under the income tax law as those transactions must be completed this week in order to be included in 1926 income tax returns.

Revival of rumors regarding a possible break with Mexico over the land laws which go into effect there on January 1 and a new high record in the daily average of crude oil production last week, had a depressing effect on the oil shares. Standard Oil of Ohio broke 6 points and Prairle, Carlb Syndicate, Guif, Tandem and a few other yielded a point or two.

Some of the high priced specialties troke sharply on odd lot transactions, particularly American Plano and Ford of Canada, each of which closed 8 points lower. Attificial Silk shares were leavy. American Rayon Products and of Canada, each of which closed 8 points lower. Artificial Silk shares were heavy. American Rayon Products and Spia Viscosa sagging to new 1926 low levels. Freshman Radio dropped over a point but most of the other radio, coal, baking and motor shares moved within rather narrow limits. Trading in the new Union and United Tobacco stock quieted down considerably, pending further details of the terms of exchange for the stock of other companies, but the price held steady around $8.

Public Utilities yielded rather readily pressure, American Gas & Electric, merican Superpower A, Electric Bond Share and Electric Investors all los-g a point or two.

Taking his annual glance into the fistic future book, Tex Rickard today predicted that five new boxing champions will be crowned in 1927. The promoter, in a signed story published by the Evening World, named Mickey Walker, Pete Latzo, Sammy Mandell and Charley (Phil) Rosenberg as the titleholders he expects to see deposed, with a successor picked to fill the featherweight vacancy caused by the retirement of Kid Kaplan.

At the same time Rickard definitely committed himself to a heavyweight program in which Jack Dempsey will meet the winner of the promoter's elimination tournament to determine Gene Tunney's next opponent.

Rickard named Jack Sharkey and Jim Maloney, both of Boston, as the outstanding heavyweight contend-ers, in addition to Dempsey. He qualified this, however, by adding there was a "strong likelihood that either Jack Delaney or Paul Berlen-bach would prove the best of the lot."

Rickard classifies Fidel La Barba, the flyweight titleholder, and Tod Morgan, of Seattle, king of the junior lightweights, as "real champions." He predicts both will stay at the top. La Barba, he added, faces a real threat in Elky Clark, the British champion, on January 21, at the Garden. "Gene Tunney will take on the man who has proven himself the best of the sumption of Congress next week might lead to government control of the national pastime and then the fun would begin.

Doubtless such a contingency would make for increased attendance in every park in the circuits. Constituencies in the several States boasting league teams would be franked into the ball parks in return for past favors at no expense to the for past favors at no expense to the Government control of the game Government control of the game would be an economical move for the magnates it seems certain. With 400 representatives and 96 senators to administrate the affairs of baseball. Judge Landis could be dispensed with and his salary of $65,000 a year diverted to one of the many charitable uses that big league magnates scramble over one another in their haste to fulfill.

Judge Landis also has a secretary ho is drawing $12,500 yearly, and who is drawing $12,000 yearly, and this outlay would be a clear saving under government control what with secretaries and undersecretaries of 400 representatives and 96 senators cager to do a little more work for the benefit of the country as a whole.

Baseball's greatest problem of the age, Mr. One-Eyed Connelly, would be disposed of with thoroughness under government control. Mr. Connelly, who has a strange penchant of attending ball games and prize fights and neglecting the formality of purchasing a ticket has sorely tried the club owners with his diversified gate crashing. With the government in control however, it seems certain that Mr. Connelly would abandon his peculiar profession.

If it came to the show-down, the government might invoke the aid of the United States marines in the same manner that it employs the Leathernecks to protect the mails. Why not also employ the Leather-necks to protect the club owners from Mr. Connelly. It is certain that this method of procedure might work out. Mr. Connelly while pro-fessing his fondness for attending ball games and prize fights, has never ball games and prize fights, has never professed the same fondness for a marine in full regalia with bayonet an important part of his equipment. Bayonets are nice, shiny, long pieces of sharp steel with tapering points that cut and hurt when wielded by a United States marine.

With Mr. Connelly disposed of, the government might turn to another menace of baseball, the weather. What with complete jurisdiction over the weather bureau, the government should not be troubled with postponements of ball games as a result of unfavorable weather. Frank Kelly added another purse to his list when Flaherty, in his silks, scored in a drive in winning the second event, a six-furlong sprint. Green Back landed second money and Medius third. Plaherty broke fast and rushed into lead. He made Tee Hee stop and then drew away but in the stjetch he was challeriged by Green Back. However, Plaherty held on gamely to win by a length, Green Back beat Medius a length and a half for the place.

Green Blazes finally found her racing legs and gained her first purse of the meeting. Sweet Mandy was second and Sorline third. Green Blazes ran a good race. She was last away from the barrier, but went up fast on the outside, where the going was firm. She came with a rush in the last furlong and in a drive won by a head. Sweet Mandy beat Sorline a length for the place.

Eleven 2-year-olds competed in the fourth race, a 6-furlong dash, and Mrs. L. Burg's Speedometer, showing excellent form, was winner. Speedometer, displaying good speed, rushed into the lead, saved ground by hugging the rail all the way, and won by four lengths. Royal Highness came with a rush in the stretch and was second by a length over Golden Fringe.

Jockey McElroy got a nasty fall in the sixth when his mount. Tempest, stumbled and fell just after passing the a-furlong pole. The boy was rushed back to the jockeys' emergency hospital in the paddock. Tempest made most of the running, leading by a small margin to the turn, where Timothy and Felix both passed her. Felix then drew away to win by four lengths. Canister sway to win by four lengths. Canister came slong and beat the favorite, Medley, by a length and a half for the place. McElroy was not badly injured. The final event was won by Lucy. Kate, who galloped home four lengths ahead of Huon Pine, with Laddiego third.

In Indoor Title Play Baltimore, Dec. 28 (By A. P.).—A title fight between Julius Seligson, of New York, junior indoor tennis champion, and Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, a former title holder, loomed today, as both Seligson and Jacobs won their way to the fourth round of the national indoor junior and boys' tennis championships. Donald Strachan, of Philadelphia, a protege of Bill Tilden, also turned in a workmanlike victory to place his name in the fourth round pairings.

In the boys' division Warren F. Coen, of Kansas City, and Sydney Wood, of New York, both seeded players, pushed their way through the second round with little opposition.

Frank Shore, of Washington, lost his second round match to Harold Blower, of New York, 6—1, 6—4.

Third round—Donald Strachen, Philadelphia, defeated E. A. Baker, Brooklyb, 6—2, 6—6. mer title holder, loomed today, as both

"Y" Junior Tossers Take Overtime Game

In a fast and furious game that required the playing of two overtime periods, the Y. M. C. A. Juniors nosed out the Olympic Seniors last night. 20 to 28, in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. In the last few minutes of play, Garnett's foul toss followed by a long side shot for a field goal by L. Clifford, decided the game for the Juniors.

L. Clifford led the victors in scoring with 13 points, 6 field goals and 1 foul shot, while for the losers Lombard and Schaffert shared honors, getting 4 baskets aplece.

Upsets Feature Play In King Pin Bowling

A number of upsets marked the first round in the championship and consolation flights in the 'down and out" tourney being held at the King Pin Among those who fell by the way-side in last night's rolling at the King Expressmen Down prin was Arthur Urban. Gene McGolrick, Jerry Wolfe and Ditty Ott.

In the consolation 16, "Dick" Woodward, whose sensational plinning was one of the features of the qualifying round, found the going too fast and was eliminated.

George Ward led the championship 16 with a total pinfall of 586, while Fellows was best among the second division with a count of 586.

The aurviving eights in both sixteens will meet again Thursday evening and four low men from each section will drop out. The semifinals will be bowled Friday and the finals Saturday to the serving.

N. Y. Fight Body Or- Distance Event Won by Blundon; Doubles to Morgan.

EW YORK, Dec. 28 (By A. P.).—
Charley (Phil) Rosenberg's muchdiscussed bantamweight title
N. Y., was fixed today for January 14, at Madison Square Garden, after several more chapters had been added to the verbal debate over it.

Having refused to go through with the fight January 7, and requesting an extended postponement. Rosenberg was haled before the State athletic commission today and put on the official scales. He weighed 129½, partly dressed, and the boxing solons decided this amounted to 125 stripped.

Amateur Trapshooting association at the club's local range near Benning early last June. Fawsett broke 192 tar-gets out of 200 shots to win the cham-pionship. This makes the second win for Fawsett in this event, as he led the field in 1924.

The distance handicap trophy race for a valuable trap gun was a real thriller from start to finish. W. J. Blundon jumped into the lead early in the year, but was overtaken by R. D. Morgan at the finish. Blundon pulled up with 15 legs, to nose out Morgan, who had collected 13.

Such capable shots as Dr. J. C. Wynloop, F. P. Williams and Dr. Stine were ever in close pursuit of the leader. The latter finished the race third.

Another nip-and-tuck affair was the doubles race, headed by Morgan and Williams. On the final days of this race, Williams won a leg on the trophy to the Morgan, but the shoot-off resuited in a deadlock and Morgan was finally declared the winner. The victory brought him a pair of field glasses.

J. H. Hunter, one of the best known of the Capital City's shotgun experts, romped home with the annual champlonship at 16-yard targets with the splendid score of 97 smashes in 106

II. II. Shelton proved to be the best handleap shooter on the day of the annual distance handleap championship, when he shattered 94 targets out of 100 from 17 yards to win this event for the year 1926.

W. F. Burrows, who formerly shot only single targets, developed his double shooting abilities to such a degree that he captured the doubles championship for 1926. Shooting on a cold and windy day for the title be tied with Williams with 76 out of 100 and later out-shot his opponent to win.

The club's record of 1926 moved up another notch when R. D. Morgan showed the way to gunners in the all-round annual championship by breaking 92 targets out of 100 shoots.

In the intercity matches with the Ortole club, of Baltimore, the Ortole gunners won the 1925-1926 series, taking three meets to the Washington club's three.

OLLYER'S COMMENT OF KINGS

MIKADO.

John Lowe just whispered to us over the long distance phone from New Orleans that he is all set to cut a melon with this trick at Jeff park. The old gelding ran a bang-up second to Long Point, and that is just what he needed to put him on razor edge. John won a number of races with him last year and he can win on any kind of a track. You will find him in the third spasm.

Mose Goldblatt has a hot one on tap in the day's opener. It is none other than DISCIPLE. OMBRAGE'S last race went for Sweeney. Will be hard to keep him out of the money.

INDIAN SPIRIT is touted as a real good thing in the second. That last effort was just in the nature of a warm up.

of the Department of Agriculture could inform the head of the weather bureau of the fact. The weather bureau is directly responsible to the Secretary of Agriculture and wee is it for the head of the weather bureau who would fail to respond to the request of the Secretary of Agriculture. With baseball under private control, the weather bureau was indifferent to the welfare of the magnitude, but with government supervision of the game, that is another matter.

On the field of play is where the government supervision of the game would make itself felt most acutely. It is in actual competition that the great minds of Congress would be of the most assistance. For example:

Disputes as to fair balls and foul balls would be settled judiciously, leaving nothing to the umpires' judgment. When the question comes up on the protect of a manager, the matter would be referred to the congressional committee on fair balls and foul balls.

The teams would adjourn the game to some date about nine years hence when the congressional committee on fair balls and foul balls would make its report. Then the teams would resume play if the players could shake off the characteristics of old age long enough to hobble to their positions in the field after remembering how to crawl into a uniform.

Protesting managers, also would have redress in the regular congressional procedure. Upon disagreement with the umpire the leader could forestall that worthy's decision by resorting to the filibuster. Of course he must be able to talk continually until darkness necessitates postponement, but club owners would be prepared to hire a manager who could prattle on till doomsday if it be deemed necessary.

Immediately following the team affair, both outfits will send their best into a singles match, with the reliable Glenn Wolstenholme topping them for Washington, while Phil Spinella indicated he might roll, though a last-minute shift may be anticipated. Whether this match will be five or three games will depend on the time consumed in the team affair, in view of the fact that a doubles set-to will follow the singles.

It is very probable that Howard Campbell and Al Work will toe the mark in this affair, wearing the Capital colors, while the Brooklyn pair is still doubtful, though the fans are assured that one of the Spinella brothers will appear for the visitors. JOIN RECREATION LEAGUE. Basketball players of the New York venue Presbyterian church, who have recently organized a team, will play in the Washington Recreation league the Washington Recreation league schedule according to Miss Barbara Brown, their coach.

Although the team is entering upon its first season of play a number of good players, including Miss Dorothy Hennessey, at one time a member of the Capital Athletic club squad, are in the line-up. Other members of the team include Ruth Whitney, Caroline Schnell, Gertrude Webber, Esther Clark and Ruth Finney. The church squad holds its workouts at the Marjorie Webster school gymnasium on Friday nights and plays each Wednesday with the local group of the N. A. A. F. at Central High school.

TANK ASSISTANTS NAMED.
When the Marjorie Webster school opens January 4, the swimming faculty will be increased by six members, students who recently passed the American Red Cross life saving examination.
The girls who have been appointed swimming assistants included Helen Bernier, Virginia Peaseley, Mary Lynn Clies, Marie Siebold, Betty Hill and Marjorie Wells.

HOCKEY IN ENGLAND. The South African Women's Hockey team is due to arrive in England Janu-ary 3, where it will be the guest at the Western counties tournament at Weston-super-Mare, and where it will be seen in action by American repre-sentatives attending the International Federation of Field Hockey associa-tions.

Postponement indefinitely of the ten-round bout between Pete Latzo, world's welterweight champion, and Sergt, Sammy Baker, of New York, scheduled for New Year's day in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was announced tonight. Latzo received a severe gash over his eye in training today. The fight may be held on January 14, provided Latzo is in ASHINOTON'S big siege guns, Megaw. Whalen, Work, Campbell and Wolstenholme, will open fire tonight at 7:15 o'clock at Convention hall in the first scrimmage of the duckpin war to be waged between the best club that can be gathered together in the National Capital and the Orpheum All-Stars, of Brooklyn, headed by the renowned Spinella brothers.

Word from Brooklyn makes known the fact that Phil Spinella will lead off, with his brother, Barney, rolling anchor. Louis Pecorella, Mort Lindsey and Joe Borto will fill the other three positions in the order named. Five games will be rolled here, with another block of five games booked for the return engagement in the visitors' home city on January 8. Total pinfall for the ten games will determine the winner.

It was indeed a busy year for the sook Rhodes, subjects to the American boy and strengthens its claim to be the largest portion and eared to the American boy and strengthens its claim to be the largest postions to the calendar year of 1926, which shows that more than 20,000 boys took part in competitive playsound sports during the year.

Rhodes' estimate is based on the following figures:

Grade school baseball, 1,800; grade schools of the ten games booked for the return engagement in the visitors' home city on January 8. Total pinfall for the ten games will determine the winner.

It was indeed a busy year for the

It was indeed a busy year for the male frequenters of playfrounds. Starting the first of last March, when the playfields were opened for the year, the directors canvassed the clementary schools and prepared the youngsters for the municipal playgrounds annual baseball series. Seventy-two schools entered teams and officials of the playgrounds divided them into seven section.

By June 1, seven section champions had been decided and these were pitted in a city title series that brought out some of the keenest rivairy in the history of the games. Eventually the series narrowed down to Biair-Hayes, castern section champions, and Park View, champions of the western section. The latter team won in two straight games its victories resulting from the record-breaking hurling of Oille Trew, who struck out 30 men and allowed but two hits in the two games. For fifteen innings, the entire first game and six innings of the second, not a hit was gained off his delivery.

At the same time that the youthful diamond stars were struggling for supremacy, the annual playground elementary school meets were conducted. Eight were held and the boys who were first, second and third in the division meets qualified for the city championship games staged May 22 on the Plaza playground track.

Five records were broken and a new event offered on the attractive program the day of the city meet. Low hurdles, specially constructed by playground workmen, were used instead of the hop, step and jump. Peabody school captured the meet with 52 points, marking the first time that the city track championship has gone to the Northeast section of the city.

With the close of school the latter part of June frenzied efforts were started to prepare for the annual in-terplayground field and track meet. Added zest was given the annual event tarted to prepare for the annual interplayground field and track meet. Added zest was given the annual event when The Washington Post offered medals to the individual point winners and cups to the teams winning it the highest total of points in the white and colored meets respectively.

August 17 was set as the date for the white meet, preparatory to which 40 climination meets were held on the various playgrounds. The colored meet was held September 3 and 30 colored grounds held elimination meets.

Plaze playground was the scene of action August 17 and the largest number of boys gathered that has ever been witnessed in a field and track meet in Washington, 1,500 to be exact. When about half the meet was completed a terrific rainstorm halted the games, which were postponed until the following day. But the continuation of rain necessitated a second postponement, and on the third attempt three more events were completed when rain again called a halt.

After several more postponements

After several more postponements the games were completed, and in spite of the interruptions keen interest was maintained throughout. Georgetown playground won the meet with 22½ points, while Plaza playground was a close second with 31. The colored meet went off without interruption, about 800 boys taking part, and Logan playground won The Post cup.

The second league was organized along the same lines as the first and a like number of teams entered, 1926 one hundred and forty-two elementary school soccer teams. Records from other cities show that this is one of the largest grade school organizations.

A comparison which shows how thorough the local playground department has developed its elementary school sports is shown in a recent official report from Baltimore, which shows that 38 grade school teams played soccer there where the population is nearly twice that of Washington.

Inclement weather prevented the completion of the city series in the senior league or the achedules in the senior league or the achedules in the sixth grade league. In the senior loop Park View and Langdon schools have eliminated all other contenders in the Western section, and Peabody and Lenox are the survivors in the East. The first two mentioned will meet for the Western section championship and the latter two for Eastern title. The sectional champs will meet in a three game series for the city championship. The interplayground basketball series has been delayed also and will be completed within the week. Twenty teams entered the court contest.

As readily can be seen from the

Certain-Teed Products Corporation

Corporation

The field of operation of the Certain-Teed Products Corporation is the building industry. In this field the company is one of the largest producers in the country of prepared roofings and kindred products which include shingles; building and insulating papers; dry, asphalt and tarred felts; linoleums, floor coverings and oil cloth: plaster and gypsum products; also paints and varnishes.

In the first nine months of 1926, net income was somewhat larger than in the corresponding period of 1925; however, due to greatly increased capitalization, the earnings per share show only as $4.65 in 1926 compared with $8.31 in 1923.

On June 30, 1926, the company was in good financial condition having assets of over $10,000,000 and liabilities only a little in excess of $2.600,000, leaving net working capital amounting to over $7.400,000. Dividends at the full rate of 7% a year on both first and second preferred stock have been paid without interruption since the company's organization in 1917. The company's organization in 1917. The company's organization in 1917. The common stock paid dividends were paid after that date until they were resumed July 1, 1925, at the quarterly rate of $1 per share. During the past year new plant additions in the linoleum and gypsum division have started operation. It is expected that these will be of material assistance in helping to improve the company's volume and earnings.

The so-called District home rule bill, sponsored by Representative Frank R. Reid, of Illinois, is to be vigorously opposed by organized labor and the reform elements, it was indicated yesterday.

Labor, as represented in the Central Labor union, is opposed to the whole principle of the measure on the ground would give the five commissioners, nich it would set up, too much power.

of trades—the licensing of them and the like.

The Methodist board of temperance and public morals is opposed to the provision which would make it discretionary with the commissioners to permit boxing bouts, cock fights and whippet races. The board also is opposed because of its prohibition provisions.

Organized labor vigorously opposed the bill introduced at the last session of Congress to broaden the power of the present commissioners. This measure was contested so vigorously as soon as it was given a hearing that it was pocketed and never has been referred to since.

It has received this treatment deto since.

It has received this treatment despite the apparent desire on the part of Congress to give the commissioners more scope over comparatively minor matters of the District government.

Reid's bill is designed to satisfy this desire and at the same time bring the government closer to local residents in desire and at the same time bring the government closer to local residents in part response to their fight for self-government. The measure is far broader in its provisions, however, than that which simply would enlarge the commissioners' authority.

It is Reid's idea, though, that the measure need not be accepted in its entirety necessarily, but that it has any number of good points. He intends to see that it at least is given a full airing.

a full airing.

He plans to press it immediately after Congress returns from its Christmas recess.

STABLE FARM PRICES DEMANDED BY LOWDEN

Former Governor of Illinois Declares That Agricultural Surplus Is Inevitable.

FOR FEDERAL BOARD PLAN

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 28 (By A. P.).—
Some means for stabilizing prices of farm products should be found "in the interest of the consumer as well as of the producer," Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, said tonight in an address before the American Farm Economics association. This stabilization of prices, he said, must be at a point covering cost of production with sufficient profit to induce the farmers to go on producing.

"A surplus of the staple products of the farm," he continued, "is inevitable and necessary. The nation that holds this surplus is the richer for having it.
Industry can plan the better for the future if it knows in advance that we shall have enough of food and raw materials."

Virginia Will Cooperate.

The committee has the cooperation of Virginia authorities in their plans for development of the port of Washington. This city, under present plans, will act as a feeder for the port of Norfolk and of Alexandria, which Virginia authorities plan to develop to the fullest extent.

As soon as some definite action is taken by the trade organizations, the committee will seek the cooperation which would in no way conflict with the efforts of these organizations towards the beauty for the city. Electricity is cheap enough in this city, it was declared, to warrant all the industries being run on this kind of power. The buildings, also, would be of the more modern type of construction which would add to rather than detract from the beauty of the city.

Kris Kringle Is Besieged at Christmas Party Given for Youngsters.

Yesterday afternoon proved a jolly and noisy time for the 300 children who attended the children's Christmas party given by the City club in the club building.

It was an equally happy moment for Santa Claus, but he had a hard time protecting himself from the children who rushed up to him eager to be taken in his arms and told stories. When gifts of candy and noise makers were distributed they used football tactics and all but rushed him out his feet. However, he took it good-naturedy and left late in the afternoon slightly tired, but with a heart brimming with happiness.
